

Build High Performing Teams

The Five Dysfunctions of a Team Teamwork Training for Managers

Teach your managers the skills, disciplines and requirements for effective teamwork from Patrick Lencioni's revolutionary The Five Dysfunctions of a Team.

With several different training formats available, managers can learn the critical skills required for effective team leadership. Our highly flexible and customizable options include:

power session

This ½-day workshop will introduce managers to the Five Dysfunctions model and exercises. Participants will leave with several quick, effective tools designed to jumpstart team effectiveness.

full day workshop

Managers will experience a series of short interactive lectures and table discussions designed to challenge them in their leadership role. Each participant will take a team assessment identifying strengths and areas of improvement for their team, as well as learning specific exercises to address their team's needs.

implementation training

Beyond learning models, principles, and tools, this hands-on session teaches managers how to lead their own teams through the Five Dysfunctions material. Participants will learn how to facilitate a Five Dysfunctions offsite and lead discussions that will ultimately transform their team.

Client Comments

“The Table Group worked with us to develop a comprehensive, customized approach for training all of our store managers on The Five Dysfunctions of a Team. By reinforcing this approach in our management meetings, we have seen a dramatic improvement in our leadership, teamwork and performance.”

Donna Lemaster,
Director, Leadership Development,
Barnes & Noble

“The Table Group's straightforward, substance-over-style approach has made a tremendous difference in our team's effectiveness.”

Jeff Lamb,
Vice President People & Leadership Development, Southwest Airlines

The Model

www.tablegroup.com

925.299.9700